The FEI Code of Conduct for the Welfare of the Horse

1. The Fédération Equestre Internationale (FEI) expects all those involved in international equestrian sport to adhere to the FEI's Code of Conduct and to acknowledge and accept that at all times the welfare of the horse must be paramount and must never be subordinated to competitive or commercial influences.
2. At all stages during the preparation and training of competition horses, welfare must take precedence over all other demands. This includes good horse management, training methods, farriery and tack, and transportation.
3. Horses and competitors must be fit, competent and in good health before they are allowed to compete. This encompasses medication use, surgical procedures that threaten welfare or safety, pregnancy in mares and the misuse of aids.
4. Events must not prejudice horse welfare. This involves paying careful attention to the competition areas, ground surfaces, weather conditions, stabling, site safety and fitness of the horse for onward travel after the event.
5. Every effort must be made to ensure that horses receive proper attention after they have competed and that they are treated humanely when their competition careers are over. This covers proper veterinary care, competition injuries, euthanasia and retirement.

The FEI urges all involved with the sport to attain the highest levels of education in their areas of expertise.

A full version of the FEI Code of Conduct is contained in the Dressage Rule book – refer to rule 1.2 or can be found at: <http://www.fei.org/about-us/standards>

NOAS CODE OF CONDUCT FOR ACCREDITED DRESSAGE JUDGES

Accredited Dressage Judges should adhere to the following NOAS Code of Conduct. As in all equestrian sports, judges must:

- make their decisions having regard for the welfare of the horse above the interests of any others involved
- have an open and friendly attitude towards all competitors while being careful not to show familiarity towards those competing
- be aware that they are responsible for setting and maintaining the image and standards of dressage both in the competition arena and away from it and that, as an ambassador for dressage, they should conduct themselves with dignity, honesty and good manners, especially in difficult situations
- treat requests from competitors to explain their decisions as an opportunity to assist the competitor to improve their performance
- honour a commitment to judge and if unforeseen circumstances prevent this, endeavour to help the organisers to find a replacement
- maintain an objective and fair mind towards all competitors which includes:
 - not taking into account anything known about riders, horses or past performances
 - guarding against conflicts of interest and avoiding judging in situations in which they have a close personal or professional relationship with a competitor or owner
- ensure to the best of their ability that the same conditions apply to all competitors
- know and understand the scale of marks and ensure that their comments and marks are related
- maintain the same standard for all competitors within a competition and at all events
- be in possession of a current Dressage Rule Book together with any amendments
- know the rules and be prepared to co-ordinate their personal opinion with the principles of the FEI and the EA
- aim to have a thorough knowledge of the correct training of the dressage horse and understand the requirements of the test they are to judge

Note: This Code of Conduct can be found at:

WHAT MAKES A GOOD JUDGE?

As a judge you have to be highly organised, yet flexible. You have to be able to focus, make decisions quickly, and be confident of the training you have received and knowledge you have acquired as a judge. You must possess diplomacy, tact and common sense. You have to be able to recognise and acknowledge mistakes you may make whilst judging and also be able to diffuse a volatile situation.

You are part of a team and if you are the Chief Judge, you have to lead that team. You must be approachable by riders and coaches. You must also act professionally in relation to your judging. As a judge, you most probably have a greater impact on the sport than riding coaches!

As a judge you must be able to perform the three S's:

See	Say	Score

DEMANDS REQUIRED OF A DRESSAGE JUDGE

As a judge you must train yourself to have the following qualities:

- Absolute objectivity and impartiality, free of personal bias/opinion, but be humble and sympathetic.
- The ability to see; be able to distinguish and to compare performances consistently from the first to the last horse in a competition, finding the correct rankings in giving the marks.

Today, when competitions last much longer than in the past, it is important for the judges to be:

- mentally alert to be able to concentrate for long periods of time;
- physically fit; and
- be able to be consistent and fair from the beginning to the end of the competition

The judge must have a thorough knowledge of dressage theory as well as practical dressage training. The Training Scale underpins all that we do when judging.

Judges must be able to recognise BASIC QUALITIES and, therefore, MAIN FAULTS that originate from an incorrect training program. They should be able to differentiate between faults due to momentary unfitness or a careless mistake. They should, be able to distinguish the difference between significant and insignificant faults.

It is very helpful if a dressage judge has trained horses themselves and taken part as a competitor. This increases a judge's empathy and understanding and may help to guide a rider so that future problems can be avoided.

OBJECT OF DRESSAGE

(Refer to Rule 7.1)

The object of dressage is the harmonious development of the physique and ability of the horse. As a result, it makes the horse calm; supple; loose and flexible, but also confident; attentive and keen, thus achieving perfect understanding with the rider.

These qualities are revealed by:

- (a) the freedom and regularity of the paces
- (b) the harmony, lightness and ease of the movements
- (c) the lightness of the forehand and the engagement of the hindquarters, originating in a lively impulsion
- (d) the acceptance of the bridle, with submissiveness throughout, and without any tension or resistance

The horse thus gives the impression of doing of their own accord what is required of them. Confidently and attentively, they submit generously to the control of the rider; remaining absolutely straight in any movement on a straight line and bending accordingly when moving on curved lines.

The walk is regular; free and unconstrained. The trot is free, supple, regular, sustained and active. The canter is united, light and cadenced. The hindquarters are never inactive or sluggish, and they respond to the slightest indication of the rider, giving more life and spirit to the whole body.

In all the work, even at the halt, the horse must be 'on the bit'. A horse is said to be on the bit when the neck is more or less raised and arched ACCORDING TO THE STAGE OF TRAINING AND THE EXTENSIONS OR COLLECTION OF THE PACE, and they accept the bridle with a light and soft contact and submissiveness throughout. The head should remain in a steady position, slightly in front of the vertical, with a supple poll at the highest point of the neck, and no resistance should be offered to the rider.

A judge has to co-ordinate their personal opinion with the general principles of the Dressage Rules of the EA and the FEI.

In these rules, it is stated how the various exercises must be executed and what is important in each movement. Therefore, each judge MUST have a copy of the rules and carefully study them.
